Kingsoft Awarded VB100 International Anti-virus Certificate for the Second Time

(April 7, 2008 – Hong Kong) Kingsoft Corporation Limited (“Kingsoft” or the “Company”; SEHK stock code: 3888), China’s leading entertainment and applications software developer, distributor and service provider, based on market share, announced that Kingsoft Internet Security 2008 has again been awarded the VB100 certificate by Virus Bulletin, the international authority in anti-virus software testing. Kingsoft Internet Security software passed the test for the first time in August 2007.

The VB100 test conducted in April this year tested against the viruses in the Windows Vista Business 32 sp1 system. Kingsoft Internet Security 2008 passed the test and was granted the certificate with 100% detection and 0% false positive. The software identified all the viruses on the Wildlist without a single case of false report in both manual scanning and real-time monitoring tests.

VB100 tests have been introduced and conducted by the Virus Bulletin in England and have nearly 20 years of history. VB100 enjoys worldwide accountability and credibility for its impartial, high standard and free of charge tests. It is regarded the benchmark and authority of anti-virus product testing. Anti-virus products are tested against virus samples from all over the world and only those attaining 100% detection and 0% false positive can pass the testes. The products either pass or fail the tests. VB100 is considered very challenging tests for anti-virus products and passing the tests is a very strong validation for the quality of the anti-virus products.

Kingsoft Internet Security 2008 adopted the new 3D Internet defense system, adding Internet credibility technology to the existing virus bank and active defense system. This is the direction of Kingsoft’s Internet security product development in response to security challenges in the Web space.

Ke Ge, Senior Vice President and General Manager of Kingsoft Software Business said, “The passing of the VB100 tests once again proved the capability and quality of Kingsoft Internet Security. In 2008, Kingsoft will continue to extend its reach on the Internet and enhance its Internet-based operations and services to meet the increasing market demand for Internet security and sustain the high growth and internationalization of our Internet security products.”

The continued development of the Internet has intensified the war between the virus creators and anti-virus products. Only manufacturers with high quality anti-virus products and ever-improving technology can win the customers. Kingsoft has proved itself to be a winner in this regard. Daily average paid users of Kingsoft’s Internet security software has been increasing at a rate of over one million per quarter. For the three months ended December 31, 2007, the number of daily average paid users of Kingsoft's Internet security products had reached 7.56 million. In 2007, Kingsoft Internet security products recorded a 132% year on year increase in revenue. Kingsoft Internet Security 2008 can be downloaded at: <http://buy.duba.net/download/>
